From Costa Rica: After flying into either the San Jose or Liberia airports, we recommend taking the Tica Bus across the boarder to Rivas, Nicaragua (approximately $21). You may find out more information and book reservations on www.ticabus.com. Please note there is a border crossing fee for admission into Nicaragua; have approximately $15 US dollars and your passport ready for the crossing (it is most convenient to have USD, as there is a higher rate and longer wait to change Colones).

The Tica Bus will stop in Rivas, Nicaragua, which is about a half hour from El Camino del Sol. From Rivas, you can hail a taxi or take the “colectivo bus” to San Juan del Sur. (You may find this slightly more challenging and expensive at night). You can expect to pay anywhere from $2 - $5 dollars during the day, and up to $20 at night.

Note: You may also arrive by the Tica Bus from any other country in Latin America.
